

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to eliminate the Universal Service Fund. I pay my own way for luxury items such as cell phones and internet service and so should everyone else.

I'm already paying far more than I should for phone service, internet service, DSL service and so on. The fees just keep increasing and increasing when they should not be levied to start with. I am disgusted at having to pay a tax so that others who should be forced to pay for their own services can be subsidized. I pay enormous school taxes so why do schools need subsidies for a LUXURY item such as internet service? It's appalling.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to eliminate the USF collection system.

Sincerely,

Scott Myers
